

Sol Robots Releases Crossword Forge 4.5

January 13, 2006 - Sol Robots announced today the release of Crossword Forge 4.5, a major upgrade to the popular classroom crossword and word search puzzle generator. Crossword Forge now allows you to build interactive web puzzles, known as Crossword Forge Live puzzles. The puzzles are intuitive to use and include eye-catching animations players will be sure to love. Crossword Forge Live puzzles include the customization options you've come to expect from our printed puzzles (e.g. picture backdrops, fonts and styles), and they are also interactive, allowing you to solve them with a keyboard and mouse.

“Whether you are making puzzles for print or the web, Crossword Forge is always the best choice.” said Cortis Clark, CEO of Sol Robots.

Crossword Forge Web Export -- You can now export your crossword puzzles to the web. The web version will look very much the same only it will be interactive (e.g. puzzle size, puzzle configuration, titles, background images and practically everything else will be the same). You can also now let your users get hints when they need them (you control how many, and what kind of hints they get). Crossword Forge Live puzzles are filled with fun animations, including a special bonus when puzzles are completed.
